

Symposium Title: “Scripture and Pluralism: The Study of the Bible in the Sectarian Worlds of the Middle Ages and Renaissance”

Andrew Gow, Associate Professor of History, University of Alberta

Sidney H. Griffith, Professor of Semitic Languages and Literatures, The Catholic University of America

Thomas J. Heffernan, Professor of English, University of Tennessee

E. Ann Matter, Professor of Religious Studies, University of Pennsylvania

Michael A. Signer, Professor of Theology, The University of Notre Dame

Lesley J. Smith, Senior Tutor, Harris Manchester College, Oxford University

Frans van Liere, Associate Professor of History, Calvin College

Commentator:

Debora Kuller Shuger, Professor of English, UCLA